Inspiring learning

Early learning music, speech and drama exams are unique and exclusive to London College of Music Examinations. For children aged between three and six and for those with special educational needs, the exams are designed to help the development and confidence of all children irrespective of their music or performance talents.

Early Learning exams inspire children's learning, making exams fun rather than something to fear; instilling them with the confidence to present themselves and teaching them to engage with adults.

Anytime, anywhere

Children can take their exams live online via a secure video connection, or they can record their performance. They can perform in their first language or in English. Children can take their exams individually, or in a group if they feel more comfortable.

As easy as one, two, three

Early Learning Music and Early Learning Drama and Speech are available in three stages and follow a similar development structure. The syllabus is entirely flexible, designed to suit whatever the child is most comfortable doing. Early learning exams provide a pathway to develop a child's music or speech and drama skills, encouraging them in their performing talents.

From Stage one to Stage Three, children progress from sharing a simple greeting and interacting with their examiner to performing songs, poems with actions and playing musical instruments, all according to their level of ability.

Every child succeeds

When they complete their exam, every child receives an examination report form and a certificate with a pass, merit or distinction.

Early Learning Teaching Diplomas

If you want to help instil confidence and a passion for learning, this syllabus is for those who teach music to pre-school children in nurseries and kindergartens.
